

Cord. 1. A string or small rope composed of several strands twisted together.

2. A kind of stout ribbed fustian; corduroy.

3. In fancy weaving, the space of the design-paper confined by two vertical lines, also the string which connects the neck-twines at the leaf.

Cord'ing. (Weaving.) The cording of a loom is the arrangement of the heddles so that they move in such clusters and times as may be required for the production of the pattern. (See DRAFT.) A set of heddles connected with a given shaft is called a leaf. Each shaft is connected by a cord to the treadle whereby it is moved.

Sen'nit. 1. Braided cordage made by plaiting three or any odd number of ropes together.

String. 1. A cord of small diameter.
