

SATIN, a glossy kind of silk stuff, the warp of which is very fine, and stands out so as to cover the coarser wool.

SATTINET, a slight thin kind of satin, commonly striped, and chiefly used by the ladies for summer night-gowns.