[Pattern-Book of Old Italian Linen Embroidery. Collections I. and II. Borders, etc., with instructions in the Text. Collected and Edited by Frieda Lipperheide. Large quarto form. Price, 6 marks (= $1.50) each. Published by Franz Lipperheide, 38 Potsdamer street, Berlin.]

The above collection of specimens of old Italian linen embroidery come to us in the form of two handsome quarto volumes, containing each 30 plates, accompanied with a fully explanatory text. Of the character of the specimens, we cannot say too much in praise. They have evidently been collected by one thoroughly mistress of the subject and capable of appreciating the artistic quality of this most elegant form of women's handiwork.

They form part of a series of similar "Pattern-Books of Women's Handiwork" (Muster-Bücher für weibliche Handarbeit), which are being issued from the same publishing house, and have been preceded by three collections in similar form of "Old German Linen Embroidery," which have received the highest praises of the German press. Not only as affording women of taste an admirable set of patterns to copy, but as a means of art education, these superb collections are most admirable, and we cordially commend them to our lady friends and readers. These collections are sold separately, and the price, 6 marks ($1.50) each, is ridiculously low, when the quality of the work is considered.
