

"COTTON TEMPLE," SPEEDILY BUILT, IS FEATURE OF FAIR

A LARGE structure, built entirely of cotton, and called the "Cotton Temple," was an attractive feature of the Tri-State Fair held at Memphis, Tenn., recently. In constructing the temple, 510 bales of uniform size were used. The bales were made, hauled six miles, and the temple erected, all in a few days.
