

BATISTE, in Commerce, a fine white kind of linen cloth, manufactured in Flanders and Picardy.

There are three kinds of batiste : the first very thin ; the second less thin ; and the third much thicker, called Holland batiste, as coming very near the goodness of Hollands. The chief use of batiste is for neck-cloths, head-cloths, surplices, &c.